Moments

MADE POSSIBLE BY YOU

GRATITUDE REPORT 2019-2020

If you look closely, you'll see moments that matter all around Winnipeg's core. And many of them are thanks to your kind and caring generosity.

You might not know it, but today someone will walk through the front doors of Siloam Mission for the first time.

They'll be scared and lonely.

But thanks to you, they'll find hope in a warm meal — and a welcoming hello. They'll rest their head on a soft pillow, safe from the perils of the outside world.

Slowly, they'll begin to recover from their moment of crisis. They'll get the medical care they need, and find counselling for their trauma or addictions.

Their confidence will return. They'll learn to cope with the pain, or their mental health challenges.

And one day, they will transition into a place of their own. It might be a supportive housing unit, or it might be an apartment.

But it will be the result of many small moments, over time, that will have gotten them there. A cup of coffee, a listening ear, a place to heal, a friendly nudge forward…

Hope, recovery and transition — these are moments that matter.

Thank you for being there in those moments for men and women who fall into the unforgiving cycle of homelessness in our city. Thank you for having their back. For being on their side.

For cheering them on toward success — whatever that looks like.

Because all of those small moments you've made happen? They're not so small. They matter. I hope you'll see that in this Gratitude Report.

May God bless you for caring. With gratitude for your friendship,

Jim Bell, CEO

Dr. Riley Coulter
Board Chair

You've helped men and women in their darkest moment find the courage in themselves to move forward. Thank you for being a friend.

YOU'VE PROVIDED

MOMENTS OF HOPE

A nutritious meal. A cup of coffee. A safe bed for the night. A warm shower. New socks and underwear. These moments are the beginning of a long journey that leads to a better life.

YOU'VE PROVIDED

MOMENTS OF RECOVERY

A transition services worker who listens and advocates. Volunteer nurses and doctors right on-site who aren't in a rush to see the next patient. Spiritual care and art therapy that mend wounds of the soul. These moments are where the hard work of overcoming trauma, addictions and mental illness gets done.

YOU'VE PROVIDED

MOMENTS OF TRANSITION

Successfully graduating from our work readiness program. Showing up for shifts in our on-site commercial laundry. Getting the keys to a supportive housing room at The Madison. These are the moments we get to celebrate — you get to celebrate. They are mile markers in the long journey of building a hopeful future.

MOMENTS OF HOPE

You've helped Jackie take the first step in healing from an abusive childhood that left her reeling in pain

When she turned 18, Jackie left the reserve she grew up in and moved to Winnipeg.

She was running away from a lifetime of physical and sexual abuse. She was desperate to leave the pain behind and start a new life…a simpler life.

But life in the city wasn't easy. The pain of her traumatic childhood followed her wherever she went.

Jackie became addicted to drugs. She had used drugs for fun during high school, but now she fell into addictions to escape her trauma.

Soon, she couldn't function well enough to hold down a job. Then she was evicted from her apartment.

Out of options, Jackie ended up at Siloam Mission. She noticed a sign in the Drop-In Centre. It was an invite for a soapstone carving workshop in the Art Room.

Jackie remembered that her grandfather used to carve animals out of soapstone. Out of curiosity, she went.

It ended up being her entry point into healing…a moment of hope.

Jackie still has the long road of recovery ahead of her. But thanks to the spiritual care, art therapy and counseling she found at Siloam Mission, she is taking the first steps.

Thanks to you.

“I started using drugs to forget my past. I needed to make the pain go away. But it only made things worse. I lost my job and my apartment. When I came here, I started to heal.”

MOMENTS OF HOPE

You've helped Dexter find the will to live when he was losing the battle against depression

Dexter has lived with a debilitating mental health illness for most of his life.

His parents grew up in the residential school system. And even though they tried to shield him from their own trauma and pain, people who are hurting often lash out at other people.

Dexter manages his depression with medication. But he stops taking it when he feels healthier — or can't afford it anymore.

That's what had happened when he first arrived at Siloam Mission.

He was battling a bout of depression. He had lost his job, his apartment and his will to go on.

But through the Saul Sair Health Centre, he connected with health care professionals again — and got the support and medication he needed.

Today Dexter is regaining his optimism. And he has more good days than bad days; more moments of hope than despair.

MOMENTS OF RECOVERY

You've given Shannon a job, a paycheque, and the confidence she needs to move forward.

Shannon spent the first 12 years of her life in an abusive home.

One day in gym class, she was taken aside and told she would be staying with a new family – and that night, she met her first of many foster parents.

Shannon was bumped from home to home. Each change of house came with a change of school.

By the time Shannon turned 18 and was forced out of the system to live on her own, she had only finished grade ten.

With no high school diploma, she had trouble finding a job. And her childhood trauma caught up with her. She turned to alcohol to cope.

With no place to go, Shannon soon found her way to Siloam Mission.

She joined the Mission Off the Streets Team (MOST), a casual work program offering real work experience and a paycheque.

Now she works with the team whenever she can, cleaning streets in downtown Winnipeg.

Shannon says the first time that someone thanked her for her work, she was amazed. And she is starting to see herself differently, too.

She is gaining confidence in her own abilities, her own courage and her own potential.

She's on the road to recovery…with a little bit of help from friends like you.

"When I wear my vest and go out to clean the streets, people don't see me as homeless or addicted. They see me as a worker. And that makes me feel good."

MOMENTS OF RECOVERY

You've given Harry a second chance to get sober and reconnect with his daughters.

Harry's family is everything to him.

So, five years ago when his wife told him that she was divorcing him and wanted full custody of their three daughters, it shattered him.

"I started drinking. At night I would sit by the window and watch the cars go by," Harry says. "I would drink, and in the morning, I would pick myself up and go about my day."

The alcohol brought out a temper in Harry that used to only be there on his worst days.

He constantly got into fights. During one, the police were called. Harry was arrested, and spent the next six months in jail.

When he was released, the prison guards dropped him off in Winnipeg. That night, he slept on the street.

The next day, someone pointed him to Siloam Mission.

He was arrested again after his ex-wife caught him trying to see their children without her permission. It was after this that Harry realized that if he wanted to see them again, he needed help.

Harry asked his transition services worker at Siloam to refer him to an addictions treatment program.

Today, Harry is working hard to keep up his sobriety so that he can make peace with his ex-wife. And he is reuniting with his daughters.

“I used to have a bad reputation. I got into fights all the time. But now that I’m sober, I’m cleaning up my life. And I’m trying to be the dad my daughters need me to be.”

MOMENTS OF TRANSITION

She could have fallen into the unforgiving cycle of homelessness, but you've given Mary a bright future as a carpenter.

Mary always liked working with her hands.

After she graduated high school, Mary contracted herself out as a general handyman. She had a steady flow of jobs, and the pay allowed her to live.

But, what she really wanted to do was go to school to be a carpenter.

Using all of her savings, she moved to a rooming house in Winnipeg and began school. That's when Mary realized most of her housemates used drugs and drank at all hours of the day.

Even though she never touched the drugs, the landlord got fed up and kicked everyone out — including Mary.

That night, she found herself sleeping in Siloam Mission's emergency overnight shelter. With no money for an apartment, Mary made a tough choice: she would finish school, even if it meant being homeless.

Today, Mary has achieved her certificate. She found an apprenticeship placement. She is working toward her Red Seal certification. And she has an apartment of her own.

All because you cared enough to lend a helping hand.

“I couldn’t afford a place to sleep and food and school at the same time. I was deathly afraid of becoming homeless, but if I wanted to finish school, I had no other choice. The people here were so kind and nice…they really cared about me.”

MOMENTS OF TRANSITION

You've given Frank a home — and purpose in life — when every door was closing on him.

Frank was the youngest of five children in a low-income family.

As he got older, he was expected to follow his older siblings and work to support the family. So after ninth grade, he quit school and found a job.

As an adult Frank continued working. But with no high school education, he could only find low paying jobs — jobs that forced him to live paycheque to paycheque.

If an unexpected expense would come up, Frank would miss a rent payment.

That's how he got evicted. And that's how he ended up at Siloam Mission.

But he didn't give up. He saved up, and got another apartment — only to get injured on the job and lose his ability to work.

That's when Frank's Transition Services worker at Siloam Mission helped him find affordable, supportive housing.

BECAUSE OF YOU

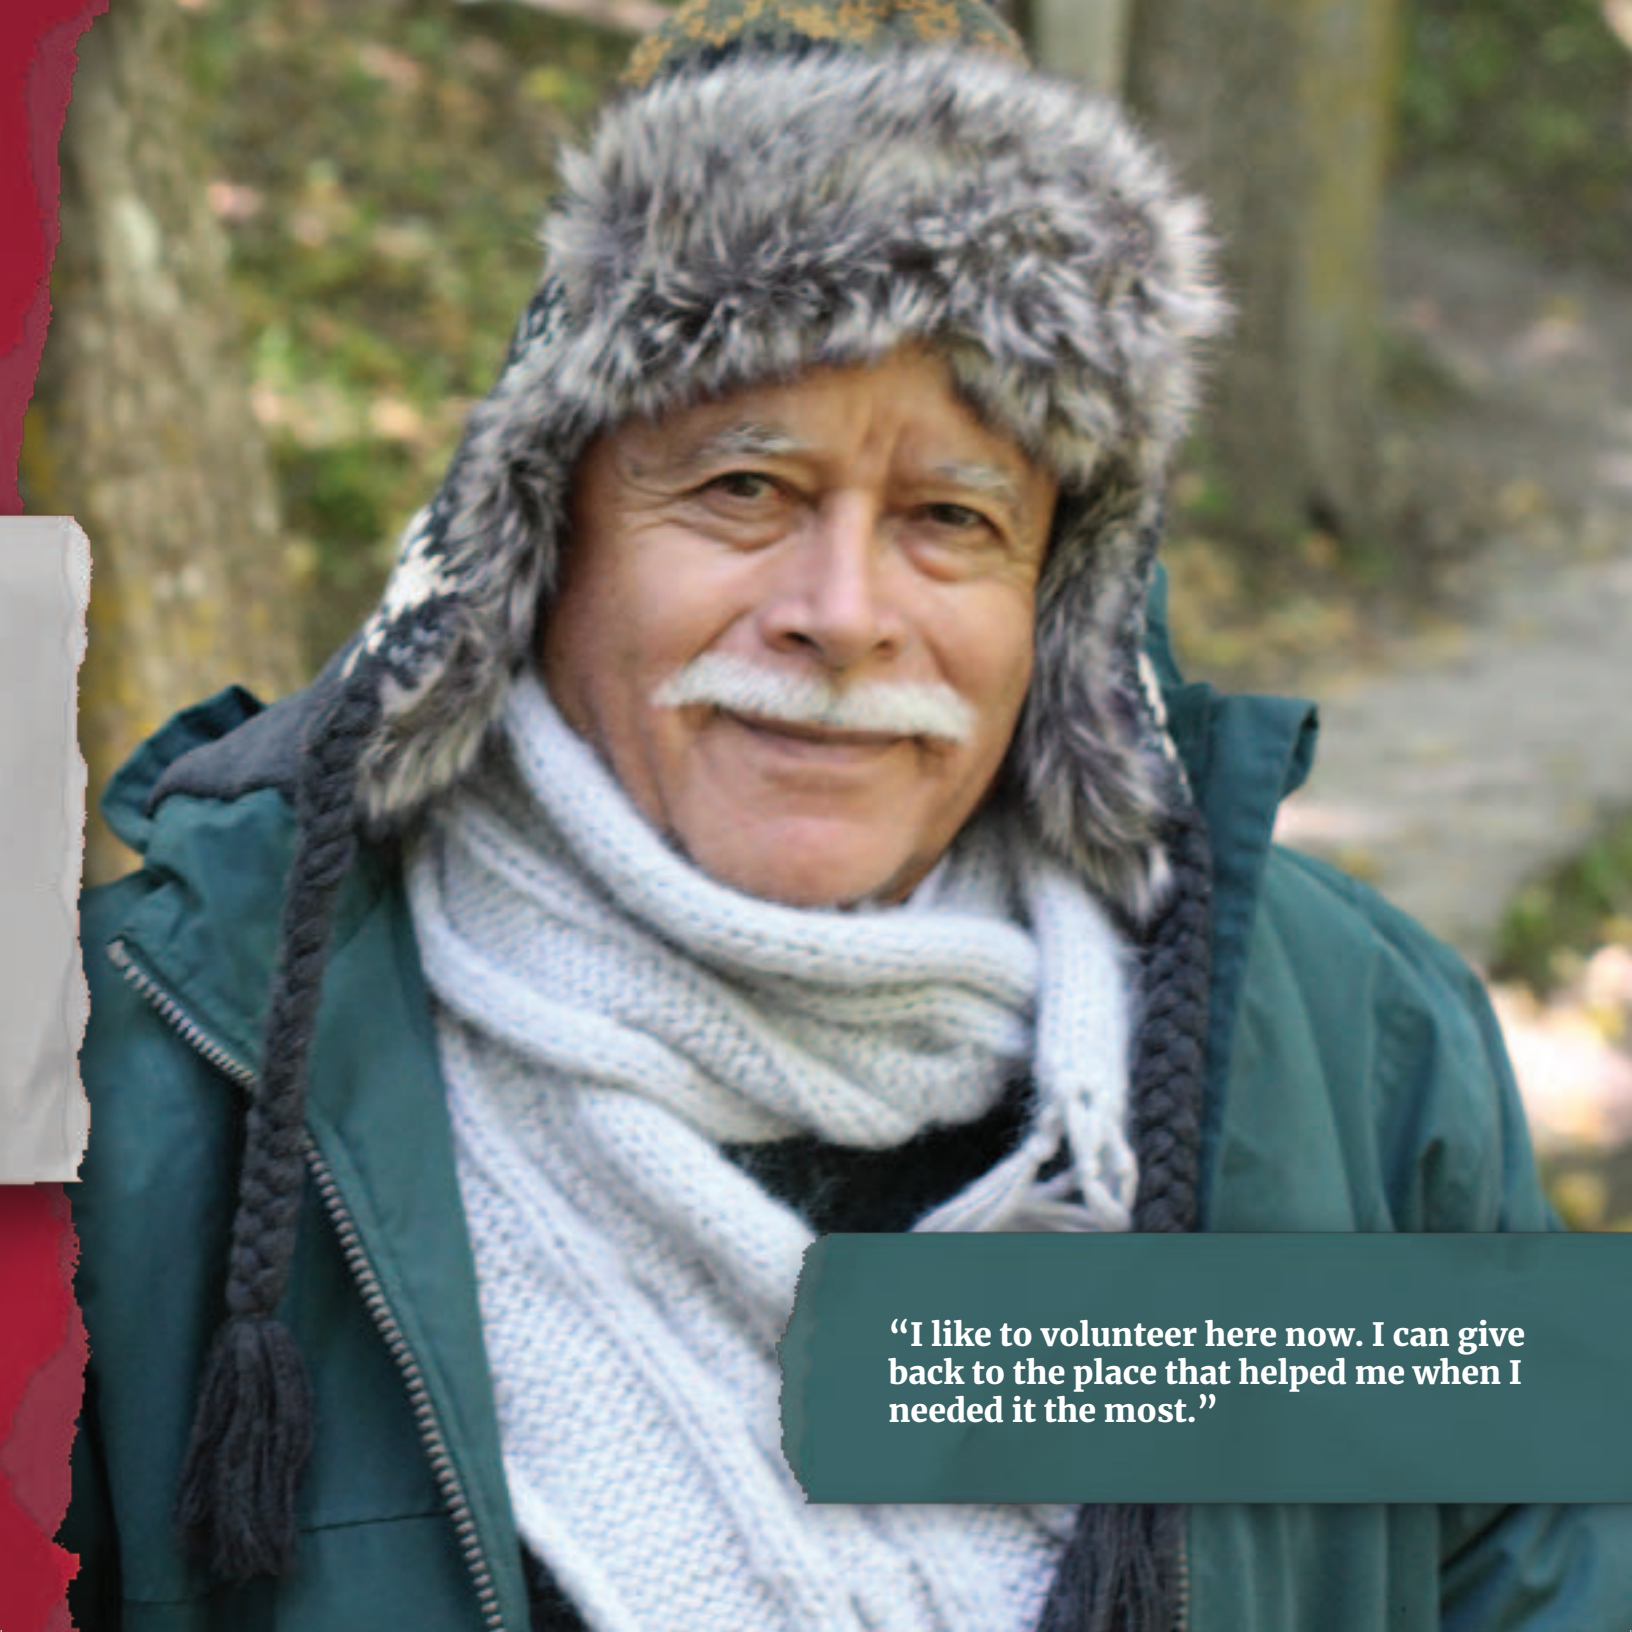
Although he is still limited by his injury, Frank now comes to Siloam Mission as a volunteer. He helps clear and wash tables, and often stays after his shifts to chat and have coffee with the friends he has met here over the years.



“I like to volunteer here now. I can give back to the place that helped me when I needed it the most.”

MOMENTS THAT CHANGE EVERYTHING

You helped us to MAKE ROOM to end homelessness.

Thanks to your amazing generosity, the $19M MAKE ROOM Capital Campaign goal has been reached! Construction of the new Buhler Centre at Siloam Mission is complete and now open to our community members.

The 54,000 square foot expansion makes room for 43 new transitional shelter beds designed to help people who enter homelessness for the first time recover — and move forward — quickly.

For the first time, we have a separate and more secure space for our new women's shelter.

The Buhler Centre also makes room for an expanded health care centre, which will now be able to offer day recovery beds, additional exam rooms and optometry space. It is also home to an expanded clothing store, a new hygiene centre with daytime access to showers and laundry machines, and a large space for sorting and storing donations of clothes, hygiene items, and food.

Thanks to you, in October 2017, we also opened a new 400 seat dining room and kitchen to ensure no one had to stand in line outside to receive a meal. The kitchen capacity more than doubled and provides a terrific space for volunteers and staff to work in when preparing and serving the meals.

And, thanks to your dedication and faithful support, the Buhler Centre has freed up space for a social enterprise laundry business, which employs members of our community to help them transition to independence.

But above all, the new building provides accessible space for our Transition Services program, spiritual care and the Longtin Resource Centre to help move people from a moment of crisis to a moment of hope…from a moment of hope, to a moment of recovery…and from a moment of recovery, to a moment of transition.

All because of your kind and caring generosity. Thank you.

A special thank you to the MAKE ROOM campaign cabinet.

MOMENTS OF GENEROSITY

Your compassion made room for those who are often excluded and left out.

We would like to sincerely thank every donor, including those who wish to remain anonymous, who supported the MAKE ROOM Capital Campaign. Thanks to you, we were able to construct the Buhler Centre and expand our programs and services to help Winnipeg's most vulnerable.

MOMENTS OF KINDNESS

Your compassion created moments that matter.

We would like to sincerely thank all of our donors — include those who prefer to remain anonymous — for sharing their time and resources with Winnipeg's most vulnerable. You're a crucial member of a team of people that is helping men and women who are hurting find hope in a moment of crisis, recover and transition to a better future.
