

Siloam Mission Board of Directors

Garth Manness, Board Chair

Garth Manness is the Chief Executive Officer of Credit Union Central of Manitoba, a position he has held since April 1999. Professionally, he is active on a number of boards and committees including Siloam Mission (chair), Celero Solutions (Management Committee), Credit Union Central of Canada, Aviso Wealth (chair), CU CUMIS Wealth Holdings (chair), Everlink Payment Services Inc., and PaaS Transition Management Board.

Over the years, he has served as chair and director for many community organizations and church boards, including as chair of the Manitoba Chambers of Commerce and Siloam Mission's Make Room Capital Campaign.

Previously, Mr. Manness served as president of the Ontario Lottery Corporation (1994-1999) and the Western Canada Lottery Corporation (1990-1994), and as general manager of the Manitoba Lotteries Foundation (1980-1989). Mr. Manness is a graduate of the University of Manitoba, where he earned his undergraduate and MBA degrees.

Mr. Manness is a member of Grant Memorial Baptist Church. Born and raised in southern Manitoba, Garth has four children and six grandchildren.

Larry Dahl

Larry is presently retired after serving for 41 years in Pastoral and supervisory church ministry. He is married to Audrey, with whom he has three adult children.

Larry has 20 plus years of experience with Siloam – including his participation many years ago in a bike-a-thon fundraising ride from Saskatoon to Winnipeg. The event was to help raise funds for work to be done on the building that was, at that time, a small place on Main Street. He survived and has continued in relationship with Siloam's work over the years, including helping with the negotiations on the purchase of the present 300 Princess location.

Larry has served a number of terms on the Board of Directors and in an advisory capacity. The experience he has gained over the years of Siloam's growth and development has helped him in providing guidance and direction for at least 12 other Compassion ministries, in a variety of cities and small communities across Canada. He was serving on 4 of those boards upon retirement.

Larry laid down his paint brush 38 years ago – but picked it up in retirement and enjoys getting back to oil painting. It's not making him any money – but it's pretty good therapy!

Garry Corbett

Garry is currently semi-retired after working for over forty years providing direct services to individuals experiencing significant barriers to entering or re-entering employment. He has worked with government organizations, multinational corporations, unions and NGO's across Canada, Europe, Asia, and other parts of the world.

Semi-retirement does not mean putting up his feet, as he is an Adjunct Professor at Pacific Coast University, teaching Ethics and Disability Management. In addition, he is the Chancellor of the College of Vocational Rehabilitation Professionals. He continues to write extensively on the subject of disabilities and full inclusion and is a frequent speaker at national and international conferences and workshops.

Garry has been on the Siloam Board of Directors since 2010. He also served as the Interim Chief Executive Officer at the Mission in 2015 to 2017. Currently he is the Chair of the Spiritual Care Committee and the Policy Committee.

Garry is a grandfather of five wonderful grandchildren and has three very cute great grandchildren.

Dr. Riley Coulter

Riley Coulter has served on the Siloam Mission Board of Directors since 2006, including twelve years as Chair. He is presently retired, having served as lead pastor of three Churches of the Nazarene in British Columbia and Saskatchewan (15 years), President of Canadian Nazarene College and now Ambrose University in Calgary (26 years).

Riley and his wife Karen have been married for 50 years, and have 3 children and 4 grandchildren. Dr. Coulter presently serves as Director of Stewardship Services, Church of the Nazarene Canada, and as a board member on the Interfaith Committee on Chaplaincy in the Correctional Service of Canada.

Rev. Rose Brower-Young

Rose attended Canadian Nazarene College and the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg from 1985 to 1990, during which time she volunteered at Siloam in its early days. She has co-pastored churches with her husband, Kelly Brower, and then worked with him as they established Kidztown – a global ministry program for children. When her husband passed away suddenly in 2004, she assumed Executive leadership over Kidztown International Ministries. In 2011 she also became lead pastor to a church in Calgary. She was elected as District Superintendent for the Canada West District of the Church of the Nazarene (covering Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba) in June of 2018.

Rose presently serves on the Siloam Board by virtue of her elected position as the District Superintendent. She is passionate about assisting those living in homelessness attain housing and regain their independence. Reconciliation is also deeply meaningful for Rose, having both Indigenous and non-Indigenous family members.

Winston Churchill

Winston Churchill began his first term on the Siloam board in March of 2020. He and his wife Virginia have resided in Winnipeg since 1992, but they both grew up in Asia where their parents were missionaries. They have two grown children, Zach who is studying in University and Ashley who is married and living in the US. When he is not busy at work, Winston is an avid fisherman both in winter and summer.

Winston currently works as the CEO of ACME Technical Services and ACME Leadership Development. His family's connection with Siloam began when they first volunteered in the kitchen in 2013. With his experience in team building, organizational focus, and executive leadership, Winston brings valuable life experiences to the Siloam board.

Colin Taylor

Colin has worked in the Fintech industry for 20 years and currently operates a contact centre in Winnipeg. Within the industry, he specializes in operations and performance management of contact centres worldwide.

Colin's relationship with Siloam began in 1994 when he started volunteering with the organization, later joining the board in 2010. He resides in Winnipeg with his wife and three young children. In his free time, he enjoys playing sports, especially soccer, and spending his summers camping.

Tracey Silagy

Tracey Silagy grew up in Winnipeg, where she and her husband have been long-time supporters of Siloam Mission. In 2016, Tracey joined the "Make Room" capital campaign committee and in 2018 she joined the Board of Directors. Tracey's background is in actuarial science, but once her children were born she became a stay-home mom and community volunteer. Tracey has served on numerous non-profit boards including church, school and community organizations.

Tracey's love of math has been put to use as a volunteer tutor for adult learners at JobWorks and Yellowquill College. Her other volunteer activities have included everything from teaching Sunday School, to running drama clubs and creating costumes and sets for a myriad of musicals and plays. For fun, she sings with the Women of Note community choir and reads Agatha Christy novels. Tracey and Stewart attend Nassau Street Church and have two grown-up children and a grand-dog named Molly.

Victor Bergmann

Victor is a Chartered Professional Accountant, having retired from public practice with Deloitte LLP in 2020.

Victor started his association with Siloam Mission in 2011 as a weekly volunteer and has continued in that role to the present time. He joined the Board in 2014 and is currently chair of the Audit Committee.

His previous community and church involvement included serving on the Winnipeg Youth For Christ Board, serving on the board of a credit union and serving as treasurer of his church.

Victor is a member of the Fort Garry Mennonite Brethren Church.

He and his spouse are proud and grateful parents and grandparents.
